Firm hired to study water rates

By JEFF BROWN
SOUTH BAY - The South Bay water and sewer rates are going to be studied for possible ways to reduce them, but Mayor Donald E. Tanner said he isn't optimistic about the firm's possible findings.

The city commission Tuesday night, June 7, hired B.G. Enterprises representative

Bonita Gooch to study the rate schedule and present the commission with a report in July.

The study will cost $3,750. "I'm willing to go along with the commission on this. If she can find a way to lower the water and sewer rates, I'm all for it," said Tanner. "I don't believe she can. I think she may have some alternatives that we aren't going to like."

Gooch explained that she will study the current rate schedule and the bond issues governing that schedule as part of her examination.

"She said she won't be bringing back a 'ready-to-work rate schedule,' but rather theurums and alternatives that will need further study and work by engineers before they can be applied."

Commissioner Rennick Morris said the study could "clear the air, regardless of what she finds, will clear the air immensely."

Gooch will also be examining the city's audit report to determine ways the city could solve problems the auditors listed in it.

She said her cursory examination revealed the auditors had listed three major problems in the report, one of which was over-expenditures by several departments in the city.

Gooch and B.G. Enterprises were hired unanimously.

In other business, the city commission voted to advertise for price quotes in a repaving project.

The city is seeking a contractor to resurface SW Fifth Avenue from Palm Beach Road south to the road's end.

According to Morris, City Manager Max Harrelle estimated the cost for the project to be about $17,000. Tanner said he believes the quotes may come in lower than that, and added that the project doesn't include sidewalks.

Seminoles build chickee at AREC

By JEFF BROWN
BELLE GLADE - Joe Crockett helped the Seminole Indians develop one of the best cattle herds in the state, so when he decided to retire, the Seminoles decided to pay tribute.

Late last week, a group of Seminoles from the Big Cypress and Brighton reservations donated time, labor and material to build a chickee at the Belle Glade extension of the Agricultural Research and Education Center in honor of Crockett.

Most Seminoles from the reservations in Florida know how to build a chickee because, until recently, most reservation residents lived in chickees, said Jacob Osceoli, one of the workers on the chickee last week.

The federal government eventually built housing on the reservations, but Osceoli said that many Seminoles still keep chickees on their property because they find them cooler and more traditional than the standard housing the government provides.

A chickee is a cypress log frame structure with a roof of palm fronds. Osceoli is a member of the tribal council now, but said before he entered tribal politics, he used to build chickees for hire in Florida.

Many people want them for picnic type pavilions in their yards or for storage. The cypress frame will last about 20 years in most cases he said, but the roofing will have to be replaced every three to five years.

It took the workers about two and a half days to build the chickee at the AREC, but Osceoli said that would be cut to about one and a half days on a chickee of similar size if he was building it for hire.

The workers building the chickee at the AREC were volunteers and were taking their time, "having fun at it," explained Osceoli.

Chickees come in various sizes. Because of their design, the larger the area it covers on the ground, the higher the roof will rise.

In Tampa, they built one that went up as high as those trees," said Osceoli, pointing to trees nearby that stood about 40 feet tall.

The chickee will probably be used for open houses and outdoor events at the AREC, said one AREC employee.

Official dedication ceremonies will probably be later this summer.

Man wounded in Sunday shooting

BELLE GLADE - Belle Glade Police officers are calling the shooting of a Belle Glade man Sunday, June 5, self-defense.

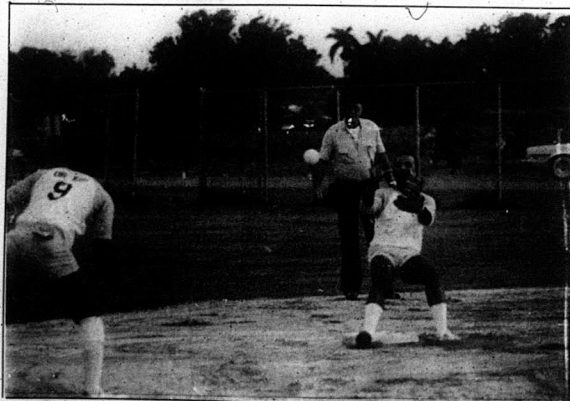

According to Detective Ray Swaford, Diana Highsmith, 33, of 516 SW Avenue E number 308 apparently shot her boyfriend, James Williamson, in the stomach once with a .22 caliber revolver.

Williamson was treated at Glades General Hospital and moved to Good Samaritan Hospital later Sunday evening.

According to Swaford, Williamson had apparently attacked Highsmith and dragged to the apartment with a golf club around her neck.

Highsmith broke loose and picked up a revolver. Williamson allegedly threatened to beat her with a bottle and she shot him.

THE NO NAMES handed Glades Sugar its first defeat of the spring last Wednesday. Glades Sugar had previously won the B Division in the Junior Woman's Club Tour-namment and was undefeated this year. Above, the No Names second baseman takes a throw from short for the force-out. More softball results are inside.

THE COMPLETED CHICKEE will probably be used for outdoor events hosted by the AREC.

Woman arrested in Pahokee attack

PAHOKEE - A Pahokee woman is charged with the shooting of two men Tuesday afternoon.

Detective Steve Haller of the Glades substation of the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Department, said that Debrah Ann Royal, 27, of 354 Rardin Avenue in Pahokee, was in jail Tuesday afternoon, June 7, under $25,000 bond, after she allegedly shot Clarence T. Bryant, 23, of 160 Apple Way in Pahokee, and Clarence Bryant, Jr., 31, of 314 Rardin Avenue in Pahokee.

Clarence T. Bryant suffered a gunshot wound in the right thigh and Clarence Bryant, Jr. was shot in the back. The bullet apparently pierced his right lung and lodged in his right shoulder.

The three were apparently arguing over a cantaloupe valued at about $1.25 when Royal unposedly shot the men with a .25 caliber automatic handgun.

Haller said Royal probably shot at least four or five rounds, and may have emptied the handgun, but added that police were not aware of any other victims.

The two men were scheduled for surgery by Dr. Caesar Orduna Tuesday evening at Everglades Memorial Hospital in Pahokee.

The shooting occurred at 2:20 p.m. at the corner of Adams and Rardin and was witnessed by several individuals, said Haller.

Royal was charged with two counts of aggravated battery and one count of manual possession of a firearm by a convicted felon.

Haller said Royal was on probation for a conviction for aggravated battery.

"AND WHAT NOT"

Telephone is conversation piece

I've got so many thoughts about home-owned phones, it's making my head ring.

It's just a few years ago that phone owners came out of the closet. Friends would snicker that their extension phone in the bedroom was illegal. They had bought it (or stolen it) and installed it themselves without the phone company knowing it and by disconnecting the bell and keeping repairs out of the bedroom, they were saving the monthly charge for an extension.

It wasn't nice to fool Ma Bell, but look who's snickering now as we all start shopping around for our own phones.

I've always had a love-hate relationship with my telephone. It ranks one cut above the doorknob only because I don't have to comb my hair or slip on something presentable to answer it. I love the convenience of it but hate its persistence when I'm trying to ignore it because I'm in the shower, in bed, or feeling just plain uncomfortable (if that term bothers you, think of it as an anti-social disease).

In the early days of color coordinated telephones, I resisted the blandishments. Black was fine with me for something I planned to park in a convenient but out of the way spot and ignore it like a sleeping dog. If it was blooming color I craved. I could buy a bunch of posies. A phone is, per se, a conversation piece, I figure, but not a centerpiece. Eventually I got quite fond of tan ones, though — they don't show the dust as much as black ones.

And I have remained equally disinterested as pushbuttons replaced dials and then started hiding under whatever you call that part of the phone you pick up to listen and talk through. Which reminds me of my grandmother who never could operate a desk phone all by herself. She always began conversations by talking through the ear piece and complaining she couldn't hear a blessed word the caller was saying. Somebody always had to stand beside her to the change ends around (without knocking her glasses off) and then keep reminding her she didn't have to shout to be heard.

So now the phone companies have reached out and touched everybody with the message that phone owning is at hand. Suddenly the phone that was known as an instrument is being called an appliance, and that should tell us all something.

An appliance is something that breaks down and either has to go back to the factory or into the shop like a TV or a toaster. Appliances are fixed with spare parts that have to be ordered from Taiwan or Hong Kong. They are fixed by repairmen who are six weeks behind, on vacation or equipped with an answering service that doesn't call back.

People give appliances for gifts. Gifts in bad taste have to be brought out of storage when the giver comes for a visit. When you bring out Auntie Doody's painted dial lamp, you'll have to remember to plug in the matching phone. Ditto, the reclining mud with the dial in her midriff that rich Uncle Dudley sent.

I suppose we'll all learn to cope with most of it, but there's one dilemma I'm left sitting on the horns of. At times we don't know our phone is out of order. It's the caller who reports it. So if the bell isn't ringing and the phone company isn't dispatching a repairman to locate the trouble because it's not their problem, how will we get the message?

Rate study can't hurt

The decision this week by the South Bay City Commission to hire a consulting firm to study the city's water and sewer rate schedule can't hurt.

The study, priced at $3,750, won't cost that much and the city may benefit by it. Mayor Donald E. Tanner said the study will probably result in alternatives that the city commissioners will find unacceptable, but voted for the study in the hopes that it could result in some feasible alternatives.

Commissioner Rennick Morris was correct when he stated that, no matter what the study's results are, it will help "clear the air."

South Bay residents are apparently concerned with the rates and anxious to see them lowered.

The decision to contract for this study proves the city commissioners are just as concerned about those rates and willing to try to lower them.

Even if the alternatives that result from the report do turn out to be unfeasible, the commission has helped "clear the air" by bringing in an independent firm to study the rates and look for alternatives.

We think the study serves the best interest of the city residents who will have to cope with the high rates and the commissioners who are in the position of having to live politically with the rates and the voters.

Be happy and good luck

With the commencement ceremonies last night of the two local public high schools, the members of the western Palm Beach County class of 1983 have all become alumni.

This would normally be the time and the space where we would recite a list of problems in the world and how dismal things may look. Then we would say something like there's still hope if you work at improving things.

Well, we aren't going to do that. Things aren't that bad and most likely, you aren't going to make the world a paradise in your lifetime.

So, all we really want to say about what lies ahead of you is that you should try to be happy and not hurt anyone.

No lectures, no doomsaying, just a little advice.

And good luck.

Some issues just never die

Editors Note: This column originally appeared in May of 1982. It was printed in response to a persistent rumor which turned out to be false. Recently, this rumor proved to be still alive and still equally false. Since the rumor is still going strong and Jim Jones is away for two-weeks of Annual Training with the U.S. Army, we decided to re-run it at this time.

Ooep!

Last week, one of our editorials argued that the Federal Communications Commission not ban religious programming from television and radio. What brought our editorial about was a report that Madalyn Murray O'Hair, the woman who had successfully brought suit in the 1960s to remove prayer from schools, was trying to eliminate religious broadcasting as well.

Apparently, religious programming is safe for the immediate future.

Rev. Don Richardson of the First United Methodist Church of Clewiston brought in copies of "The United Methodist Reporter," which within the past two weeks addressed the O'Hair report.

"Madalyn Murray O'Hair is not petitioning the Federal Communications Commission to remove all religious broadcasting from the airwaves," the Reporter stated in a front page story April 30.

"Despite that fact, the FCC is being inundated with a new surge of letters urging that the efforts of the famed atheist be stopped," the Reporter continued.

A National Catholic News Service story written by Jim Lackey reports that the number of letters urging the FCC to deny Mrs. O'Hair's request jumped from 55,000 to 223,000 in March.

Lackey says that the O'Hair case is an example of the false rumor that won't go away.

The Reporter said that the rumor apparently, started when in the early 1970s two broadcasting producers — but not Mrs. O'Hair — urged the FCC to examine the fact that religious broadcasters were being granted FCC licenses to air educational programming.

The two producers maintained that the religious broadcasts were not presenting educational material, but rather religious propaganda and thus should not be given the privilege of an educational license.

In 1975, the FCC rejected the petition, saying an examination of only religious broadcasts would be a violation of the separation of church and state.

"Only God knows what happened next," wrote Lackey in the National Catholic News Service story, "but somehow the FCC's number on the case, RM 2493, and the name of Mrs. O'Hair became linked, and the letters began flowing in."

Most of the letters arriving at the FCC cite the case as RM 2493 and point to Mrs. O'Hair as the instigator.

In 1978, 2.3 million letters on the case were received by the FCC. The total fell to 500,000 in 1981, but in March a new surge of letters poured in.

Millions of dollars on postage have been spent by petitioners, and the FCC has probably had to hire extra workers to deal with the flood of mail.

We are relieved that RM 2493 is a dead issue and are pleased to set the record straight.

A GLADES SUGAR INFIELDER catches a fly ball.

By JEFF BROWN

BELLE GLADE — Pete Sanchez broke a scoreless tie in the top of the fourth inning with a triple into right field off of Paul Allen to score Darrel Collier and put Theo's on the road to a 10-0 victory over Carter Electric.

Carter Electric held Theo's in the first three innings to just three hits.

Raye Parham hit a one out single into right field with one out in the top of the first inning, but he was forced out at second when the next batter, Timmy Martin, grounded to short.

Carter Electric put together a two-out threat with the bases loaded in the first inning.

Paul Allen walked with one out and took second when Mark Allen singled into left field.

Paul Allen was forced out at third when Tim McKee grounded to Pete Sanchez, and Mark Allen took second.

Rick Halcomb walked to load the bases. Shortstop Mike Riley ended the inning when he tapped a grounder to the Theo's shortstop, Timmy Martin, for the third out.

An error by Carter Electric second baseman Tim McKee allowed Pete Sanchez to take first in the top of the second, and Dewey Martin's single into right centerfield advanced Sanchez to second, but the inning ended when catcher David Abner popped to shortstop for the last out.

In Theo's half of the third, Raye Parham singled into right field with two out, but Timmy Martin followed with a line drive grabbed by Carter Electric pitcher Paul Allen to end the inning.

New running club started in the Glades

BELLE GLADE — A group attempting to form a new running club in the Glades has scheduled its second meeting for Thursday, June 9 at 7 p.m. at the Belle Glade Municipal Library.

Eight individuals attended the first meeting May 18 at the library.

Jill Wright, who has co-ordinated the Black Gold Half Marathon for the last two years, said she feels that there is enough interest and support in Pahokee, Belle Glade and Clewiston to start a club in the area.

She said the purpose of the club will be to promote more runs, support the runs already in existence and to enable its members to become better informed about running in general.

Monthly "fun runs" are planned during the summer, according to Wright. She said anyone interested in joining the club could attend the next meeting.

Card of Thanks

The family of Higinio (Gilberto) Alvarez would like to thank all the friends and relatives for the many cards, phone calls, flowers and prayers given during Gilberto's stay in the hospital.

Anderson also contributed offensively.

He hit three singles in three at-bats, drove in three runs and scored once.

In the A Division, Gary Bradshaw of Mace Sod went three-for-four against Sugar Supply Wednesday evening.

He knocked in five runs and scored three in Mace's 16-1 victory. Two of his hits were homers.

Mace Sod's record stands at 2-1 and Sugar Supply has no victories against four defeats.

That threat evaporated when Paul Allen grounded to the pitcher for the final out.

In the top of the sixth, the two lead-off batters reached base and crossed the plate to put Theo's up by five runs.

Wilson-Leonard exchange wedding vows

Doretta Lee Wilson and Charles Denis Leonard Jr. were united in marriage May 21, at the Everglades Presbyterian Church in Belle Glade. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Q. Wilson of Belle Glade. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Leonard Sr. of Lake

Clarke Shores. Rev. Douglas Love of Ashville, North Carolina, brother-in-law of the groom, performed the double ring ceremony. The bride, given in marriage by her parents, and escorted to the altar by her father, wore a formal gown of traditional white bridal satin featuring an off the shoulder neckline edged in alencon lace. The slightly bouffant elbow length sleeves were overlaid with a vertical band of lace and seed pearls. The bodice trimmed with a panel of re-embroidered Alencon lace and seed pearls, extended into a point in front and back. The gathered skirt, edged at the hemline with lace, formed a chapel train. The lace edged veil was held by a Juliet cap of seed pearls and lace. The bride's jewelry was a gold baby locket belonging to her paternal grandmother and her diamond and pearl earrings were a gift of the groom.

A spring bouquet of yellow sweetheart roses, yellow King lilies, magestic and white daisies was designed in a light, airy cascade interspersed with English ivy, dracena and aglonema foliage, was carried by the bride. Vanda Morrow, the matron of honor, wore a gown of lemon yellow quiana styled with a V-neck and an over-bodice caplet, forming a sheer sleeve effect, trimmed with tiny shoulder bows. Her hair pieces were matching yellow silk combs. She carried a cascade bouquet of English ivy, yellow sweetheart roses, yellow King lilies and white daisies.

The couple spoke their vows before an altar banked with areca and lady palms, white tree shaped candelabra holding mass bouquets of yellow gladiolus, yellow King lilies and majestic daisies. The candelabra were joined by a garland of sprigged fern.

White satin bows and springerli fern marked the reserve seat pews. A white aisle cloth was used in the ceremony. Karen Corbin played a program of nuptial music. Carol Schmidt sang "Whither Thou Goest", "The Wedding Prayer", and "One hand, One Heart".

Ralph Lopez of West Palm Beach served the groom as best man. Daniel Wilson of Greeley, Colorado, brother of the bride and Roger Bailey of Tampa, Florida, brother-in-law of the groom were ushers. They were Tommie orchid boutonniere. The men were attired in brown formal suits. Lisa McKinstry of Pahokee, cousin of the bride, kept the guest book.

Mrs. Wilson chose for her daughter's wedding a mauve pink formal gown of chiffon with a softly draped ruffle neckline. The groom's mother, Mrs. Leonard, wore a rose pink chiffon dress with a hankerchief point hemline. The corsage of each mother featured a white Cattleya orchid. Grandmothers of the bride, Mrs. Mary Boswell of Atlanta, Georgia, and Mrs. Doris Wilson of Stuart, Florida, and the groom's grandmother, Mrs. Maggie Leonard of Crestview, Florida, were present for the occasion. Each was presented a cymbidium orchid corsage. Immediately following the ceremony a buffet reception was held in the church social room. Guest tables were covered with yellow cloths centered with bouquets of yellow spring flowers in tall crystal pedestal vases. A matching arrangement in a five-globe candelabrum was the buffet table centerpiece.

The bride's table, covered with a white lace cloth and yellow underlay, held a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. Punch was served from the crystal bowls. Assisting at the reception were Margaret Bourque, Dorothy Cumpston, Violet Pelsing, Eleanor Parker and Joan Whitlock. The couple will reside in Palm Springs, Florida following their honeymoon. Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Continued on page 11

Introducing the Aero. It's as smart as it looks.

Aero's "smart" is more than skin deep. The heart of this sleek design is a machine that's a breeze to operate, a joy to ride. Inexpensive, too. Best of all, it can get you noticed. In fact, there's no smarter way to make the scene.

Royal speaks to Clewiston Lions on Diabetes

By JIM JONES

By the end of this century, diabetes could surpass cancer and heart disease as the nation's number one killer.

Charles Royal of Belle Glade Thursday, May 26, told Clewiston Lions Club members how the disease has affected his family.

Ten years ago, his then two-year-old son was diagnosed as having Type I (insulin dependent) diabetes, also known as juvenile diabetes.

Diabetes is a disease in which the body is unable to convert sugars and starches into the energy needed for daily life.

Juvenile diabetes accounts for about 10 percent of all diabetes cases, is incurable, and afflicts juveniles and young adults.

At one time, victims of juvenile diabetes could expect a life span of only about 26 years. Advances in medical research have since stretched Type I sufferer's life expectancy greatly.

Royal's son now leads an active, near normal life, including sports.

But part of his daily routine is sampling his blood sugar daily and injecting himself with insulin.

Many young diabetes victims suffer from complications, such as poor circulation leading to amputation, or are more susceptible to kidney, heart, and eye problems.

The other major type of diabetes is Type II or non-insulin dependent. Also called mature onset diabetes, Type II usually develops after age 35. Type II diabetes can often be controlled with diet and exercise, although some medication may be required.

Beta cells, found within the pancreas, fail to produce insulin and the body is unable to handle its glucose, Royal said.

Medical researchers have found that transplanting the pancreas is a cure for diabetes.

But the scarcity of donors and the body's tendency to reject transplanted organs make it an unfeasible solution at this time.

Instead, researchers are concentrating their efforts on cultivating Beta cells within the body as a cure for the disease, Royal said.

A team of internationally recognized doctors and scientists has been assembled in Miami to find a cure for the disease, Royal said.

Given current progress, a breakthrough in research is possible by the end of the decade, he said.

Three rules for living with diabetes are: 1. Don't live in the past or the future - get all possible enjoyment out of each day, 2. Never run out of encouragement, 3. Continually strive and believe that a cure for diabetes will be found within the lifetime of young victims.

THE BEAUTIFICATION AWARD was presented to Glades Central High School by the Beautification Committee. The school received the trophy more times in the last year than any other school to win the overall contest. Shown front row from left is Ed Foley, chairman of the beautification committee, Effie Greer, principal, Eddie Fletcher, custodian and Gladys Ganz, member of the Beautification Committee. Back row is Samuel King and Rodale Mann, custodians.
